Keynote n°1: Cyber risks and hybridization, what issues for tomorrow?

The growth of attacks, both in terms of volume and sophistication, the cloud and hybridization adoption, endpoint and employees mobility, strategic positioning of cloud actors and the regulations pressures… so many factors that question the historical models of cybersecurity, in a globalized and ultra-connected world. Is the zero-trust model an alternative?

Speaker: Amelle ZETTILI, Cloud platform and security Director, Orange France.

Keynote n°2: Cybersecurity, the core of digital transformation.

The reason for being of every company is to attract new clients and to develop those already existing, with adapting the jobs to deliver the best value as possible. The digital creates and amplifies virtuous circles of value, transforming the industries, the organizations, the experiences and the brands. Hence, businesses must make new choices, for persistent change. This transformation exposes businesses to new types of cyber risks, requiring new cyber strategies in order to protect the constantly evolving business models.

Speaker: Fiona CASTELLI, Director, Cyber Risk at Deloitte.

Keynote n°3: Next generation Chiefs Information Security Office

"From 2025 on, an unique and centralized cybersecurity function will not be agile enough to answer the needs of a digital organization" [Gartner Report for IT Leaders, 2022]. "Which organizational innovation could be considered as valuable, within our cybersecurity world, and most particularly regarding the CISO position in the company?". Truth is, that the function and the responsibility of information security should be integrated in every pillar and decision-point of the company and that's even more true for every company composed of IT directories within Cloud, DevOps, Software editors etc. What do you think about a matrix organization centered on information security in businesses?

Speaker : Dr. Yosra BARBIER, Director Information Security and Cefcys member.

11:15   11:30 Coffee break

11:30   12:30 Next Part of Conferences : Future of cybersecurity in women's eyes

Keynote n°4: A SOC organization around the product to answer today's stakes and build tomorrow's industrialization?

Cybersercurity is the best illustration of a multi-skilled area. When the times being are around tensed market and ubiquitous and more and more organized threats, it's necessary to review our organization toward more reactive, efficient and relevant SOCs

Speaker: Sabrina DELCROIX, Detection Protect Manager at Sopra Steria.

Keynote n°5 : Identity

Have you heard about the famous Peter Steiner comic « On the Internet, nobody knows you're a dog", published in the New Yorker? User's identify is virtually, at the core of every cybersecurity measure. This sentence has become a paradox today. We don't know who is hiding and at the same time, we – and our personal data – are exposed. It is not only about who is a dog and who is not. It is about who's working for an hostile nation-State? Who can be a resentful ex-employee?

Intervenante: Wadiha EL BATTI, Product Management Director at Wallix.

Keynote n°6: Zéro Trust: a new security paradigm

More and more, organizations opt for Zero Trust models – and it's particularly the case of businesses afraid of the risk or facing strict regulatory constraints linked to data protection. The Zero Trust Security requires the users and systems to prove their identity and reliability, and applicate the precise rules of authorization based on identity – and this, before they can access applications, data or other systems.

Speaker: Hanane LBOUKILI, Security and Compliance Strategist at AWS.
